
Sh. Vivek Dhawan

Sh. Vivek Dhawan joined IMD as Scientific Assistant on 6th March 1998. He has worked in Meteorological Observatory, Forecasting section & Inspectorate Section. He has also worked as Incharge of Meteorological Observatory Dhubri where he took the upkeep and maintenance of meteorological observatory as well as maintained liaison with local authorities and end Users. He is responsible for maintaining of Automatic Weather Stations and Automatic Raingauges in the State of Punjab and Haryana. He repaired the defective data loggers and antenna on site to save the break down period. He is also taking care of IT/software related issues of M.K rainfall, Surface Observatory Software System, Synoptic Server Software System, Web Site and Computer peripherals of Met centre Chandigarh. He is assisting the Incharge of Met Centre Chandigarh in data compilation and presentation for various research papers. He is assisting Met Centre in briefing regarding instruments and observational met work and the Different forecasting tools which are used for forecasting to the visitors of different educational institutions and another user department. He has also undertaken all other administrative and technical responsibilities assigned to him by office from time to time.